A PREMATURE EXPLOSION OF DYNAMINITE

Causes Death Of Ora Bruner And Painful Injuries To Vivian Pierce.

OCCURRED ON THANKSGIVING MORNING.

Pierce Is Reported As Improving At St. M. And E. Hospital.

A gloom was cast over the Thanksgiving enjoyments in Cloverport and the vicinity at large Thursday morning when the news reached here of the premature dynaminite explosion which occurred at Askins, Ky., at 8:15 o'clock that morning causing the death of Ora Bruner of Hawesville, and painful injuries to Vivian Pierce of this city and Burton Keene of Fordsville.

The men were employed with the steam shovel crew of the L. H. & St. L. R. R. Mr. Pierce was foreman of the crew. The men were working on the branch line of the road, where they were blasting out rock in a cut. While tamping powder in a drill hole the premature explosion occurred from some unknown reason, and these three men who were nearest the explosion were hurled up in the air.

Bruner's Body Badly Mangled.

It was stated by some of those who witnessed the accident that Bruner was thrown not less than seventy feet in the air falling to his death. When his body was found, it was so mangled that it was not even recognizable. His remains were taken to Hawesville for interment on Friday afternoon.

Bruner leaves a widow, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. N. H. Bruner and several brothers and sisters.

Pierce Painfully Injured.

Mr. Pierce's injuries were more severe than those of Mr. Keene. He was taken on a special train to Irvington and from there to Louisville to the St. Mary's and Elizabeth's Hospital. The first reports of Pierce's condition were most discouraging, but the latest news is quite to the contrary, and it was said Tuesday that he would completely regain his eye sight recovery is anticipated by his host of friends in Cloverport and wherever he is known. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Pierce who are spending the winter in Louisville were notified of their son's accident shortly after it occurred.

Sugar is sweet, but Liberty's sweeter; for your country's sake don't be such an eater.

Here are the Lucky Ones!

Last Saturday evening at the Bushman Theatre, each patron was presented with a slip of paper on which they were to write their name, put it in the "grab box," and whoever name was drawn from the box, would be a guest at the picture show the following Tuesday. The lucky ones whose names were drawn this week are, Chas. Fallon, S. R. Berry, Jr., and Mrs. Kate Rowland.

The drawing feature for Saturday evening Dec. 7, will be a Sunday Dinner. Those attending will be given slips bearing numbers and the one holding the number corresponding with that one taken from the "grab box" will be the recipient of a "square meal," in other words enough food for a Sunday dinner. Housekeepers will surely take advantage.

CLOVERPORT BOY ON CONVOY SHIP WITH PRESIDENT

Fred D. Pierce Selected Out Of 115 Men To Go On Battleship Pennsylvania.

Fred D. Pierce, a wireless operator on board the world's largest battleship Pennsylvania, was one of two men selected out of 115 to go on the Pennsylvania convoy to the transport George Washington which is probably on its way now carrying President Wilson, Secretary Lansing and other members of America's peace delegation to France. Pierce with another operator who is from New York State, were given notice of their appointments last week and in a letter to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Pierce, Mr. Pierce said he would leave Tuesday.

Pierce enlisted in the Navy when America declared war. He was first on the U. S. S. Kentucky and then transferred to the Pennsylvania.

He is 24 years old and has been a telegraph operator from his boyhood up. With an aptness for the work, and a personality which may be perceptible over that of other men, young Pierce was well chosen for the honor.

Lyceum Wednesday Evening.

The Cloverport High School will have its second lyceum number on Wednesday evening Dec. 4, at 8 o'clock, Bushman Theatre. This number is The De Willo Concert Company, featuring DeWillo Semeran and his concertina grande, an instrument that approaches the pipe organ in tone. Misses Coffin, violinist, and Woolman, reader and soprano, are members of the company.

INFLUENZA FATAL TO MRS. L. C. TAUL ILL TEN DAYS

Born And Reared In Breckinridge County. Member Of The Baptist Church.

Mrs. Margaret Ann Taul, wife of Mr. L. C. Taul whose death occurred in this city Sunday afternoon, Nov. 24, after an illness of ten days with the influenza, was buried the following day in the Cloverport cemetery. The funeral was held from the residence. Rev. A. N. Couch assisted by Rev. W. O. Rickard conducted the services. The pallbearers were Dr. Forrest Lightfoot, Messrs Chas. E. Lightfoot, W. C. Moorman, Larkin Gibson, R. T. Polk and R. L. Oelze. Mrs. Taul was born near Tar Fork, Ky., December 28, 1871. She was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Talbot Keenan. February 5, 1891 she was married to Mr. Len C. Taul and after living in McQuady several years, they came to Cloverport this being their home for the last ten years.

While in her teens, Mrs. Taul united with the Pisgah Baptist church, later moving her membership to the Cloverport church, and was one of its devout members. Mrs. Taul was of a retiring nature and rarely ever took part in any social functions. In her home where she spent the greater part of her life, was she known and loved and it was there her true womanly character was exemplified in its noblest manner.

Mrs. Taul had at her bedside in her last moments, her husband and daughter, Miss Irene Taul, one sister, Mrs. John Bates of McQuady and two brothers, Pad Keenan and James Keenan of Mattingly.

Double Wedding.

A double wedding occurred on the Hill, Saturday evening Nov. 23, when Mrs. Mollie Oram was united in marriage to Mr. Connor Johnson of this city, and Mrs. Oram's daughter, Miss Effie Oram married Mr. Vester White.

The ceremony for both couples was performed by Rev. A. N. Couch at the home of Mrs. Oram.

Mr. White is the son-in-law of Mr. Johnson by his first marriage to the late Mrs. Bessie Johnson White.

What One-half Acre Of Meade County Land Produced.

(From The Meade County Messenger.)
Albert Youtsler, of the Battletown neighborhood, is either a good farmer or has some mighty productive land. On one-half acre of land this season he raised sixty bushels of Irish potatoes. He has sold several bushels of potatoes at $1.25 per bushel. After harvesting his potato crop he sowed this half acre in turnips. His turnip crop yielded was 202½ bushels, which he has sold at 50c per bushel. Potatoes $75, and turnips $101.25 total $176.25 revenue for one-half acre of land in Meade county is not bad, but looks to us as "going over the top."

YOUNG GIRL TAKEN WITH PNEUMONIA

Miss Gertrude Loyd Succumbed Tuesday Evening. Buried On Thanksgiving.

On Tuesday evening Nov. 26, Miss Gertrude Loyd, 12 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Loyd of this city, died at the home of her parents in Breckinridge Edition. Miss Loyd was taken ill about two weeks ago with pneumonia, and seemingly she recovered from that and then she had intermittent fever causing her death.

The funeral was held from the residence at 2:30 o'clock on Thanksgiving afternoon followed by the interment in the Cloverport cemetery. Rev. W. O. Rickard held the services.

Miss Loyd came to this city seven years ago with her parents from Paducah. Last spring she united with the Cloverport Methodist church and was a happy little christian, a great home lover and a devoted daughter.

Besides the parents, five younger brothers, Robert, William, J. T., Carl and Chas. Loyd are bereft of a sister.

FARMERS REVOLT AT LOW TOBACCO PRICES IN O'BORO

Several Hundred Take Their Weed Back Home Rather Than Sell at Average $

Special to The Cloverport News. Owensboro, Ky., Dec. 3.—The tobacco market here today was a mass meeting of farmers. The growers of tobacco in this county were determined to take many of the tobacco crop back home rather than sell at the opening county warehouse of Owensboro.

When the grades of tobacco were put out for sale, the farmers became angry. Ben Lott, of H. H. Lott & Co., mounted a girder and addressed the farmers, urging them not to allow their tobacco to be sacrificed at such low prices.

Scores of farmers went to the court-house before noon and speeches were delivered in which the low prices were denounced. Another meeting was called for 1 o'clock, which was attended by at least 500 farmers. Henry S. Berry acted as temporary chairman. He told the farmers that they were cowards if they did not stand for higher prices. A number of similar speeches were made.

A motion was made and adopted that every farmer who had tobacco on the loose leaf floors take it back home. Committees were appointed to meet in every community in the district on Thursday and appoint delegates to a meeting to be held in Owensboro on Friday, when plans for an organization will be discussed.

At the warehouse in the western vailed. At the Owensboro warehouse section of the city better feeling prevailed. 300,190 pounds of dark tobacco sold at an average of $14.37. There were only five or six rejections by the farmers, it was announced.

Last year the average on the opening day was $16.65. In 1914 it was $11.82 and 1915, $4.63.

It was admitted on every hand that a poor lot of tobacco was offered for sale to-day but at the same time tobacco of a like quality brought higher prices last year.

SUGGESTS MONUMENT

To Grayson County's Fallen Soldiers Be Erected In Litchfield

If it meets the approval of the editor of this paper I suggest that a monument be erected on the public square at Litchfield to the memory of the gallant sons of Grayson county who have fallen in the recent war in defense of our country. This monument should be erected by popular subscription in memory of all who lost their lives either on the battlefield or in Camp.

I suggest that a committee of six, one from each Magisterial District, be appointed by the County Judge to take the matter in hand.

Louisville has already taken the matter up for Jefferson County and Mayor Smith has appointed a committee to take charge of same.

I trust the editor will agitate this matter through the columns of the Gazette and that Grayson county will be the first in the State to erect a monument in memory of her fallen heroes.

He has a lot of stock that he is feeding, does the work himself, and plows every day when the weather is suitable. He has sold his farm to his son-in-law, Roscoe Hendry and Mrs. Hendry, who will move on it as soon as Mr. and Mrs. Shellman leave for their new home at Pee-wee Valley. Mr. Owing is survived by his wife, one son, Powell and a daughter, Miss Hettie, also two brothers, John and Thomas Owings, and one sister, Mrs. Will Perkhiser, of Wolf Creek.

Stuart Owing, age 59, died at his home in West Point Sunday night after an illness of several weeks of flu. His remains were brought here Monday for burial. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. B. F. Hagan.

We have known Stuart for twenty years and he was a heart of gold. He was one of nature's noblemen in its truest sense, brave, generous and manly. He was the soul of honor and his friends and friendship sacred to him.

of the death of Roy. I came across the news item and it shocked me very much, indeed. Only recently I had a letter from Roy, which I am enclosing. My last letter to him I guess is on a ship somewhere at sea. Knowing that my last letter to him is still in transit and that he is no more, is a real reminder of the uncertainty of life.

I realize full well that there is nothing I can say which will at all alleviate your grief and that of his mother and I drop you these few lines for no other reason than to assure you that my most heartfelt sympathies are with you both in your distress.

Sincerely yours,

Ben Johnson.

My Dear Mr. Johnson: I have often tried to find time to write you, as I promised to when in Washington but, as you know, no matter what one's work is when he reaches this side he immediately gets down to business.

The first event after leaving the good old U. S. A. occurred just before we reached our destination, the sinking of the Tuscania she had followed our vessel for fifteen days and the night before we reached our port, there was a loud report followed by a series of rockets, covering an hour or more of time and she sank. Two of my friends were lost, two Captains from California. We were only a few hundred yards from her when she was hit and it was terrible to watch our friends go down, some of them not to be recovered, but at the same time it was in a way interesting.

After landing in France I was sent to the Field Artillery School for 3 months and graduated there April 30. It is truly a wonderful school the best of all schools in France in my opinion.

I then went to the front for two weeks and found it very interesting. The only bad part being that I could not stay.

Next I went to the Fractor Artillery School and finished this in a month or six weeks.

Next to the Heavy Artillery School and was graduated from this about two weeks ago.

At the present time I am an Instructor in this O. T. Center and like the work but do not find that it satisfies my desire to get hold of a Bosche's neck.

Artillery work is wonderful. It is really one of the most intensely interesting studies I have ever experienced. My "first love" and true one is Field Artillery. Nothing can take its place with me, but it seems my lot has been cast with the "heavies" and I am content to do my bit with them.

The training given in the preparation of firing data is most thorough and no influence effecting the flight of a projectile through the air is left out in our computations. It is interesting to note in how much more scientific this work is now than before the war.

All our boys are happy, well fed, well treated and aching for a chance at a Bosche. It really does one's soul good to note the interest they take in their work and what a princely bunch of fellows they really are. You will never know how to really appreciate America and Americans until you pay us a visit on this side and see the real temper and mettle of our "little army" as Kaiser Bill would say. And when you turn this bunch loose nothing can stop them. The papers Continued on page 4

KEEP ON RECRUITING
FOR MERCHANT MARINES

Shipping Board to Build Up All-American Personnel for Ships.

One recruiting service that will not go out of business with the coming of peace is that of the United States shipping board. It will not only keep on doing business, but will increase its scope, according to Chairman Edward N. Hurley of the board.

Orders have gone out to the board's recruiting agents to rush enrollment of men for peace crews on merchant ships, especially firemen.

"We shall want thousands of men for our peace fleets," said Mr. Hurley.
"Our recruiting service, with twelve training ships and bases at Boston,
New York, Norfolk, New Orleans, San Francisco, Seattle and Cleveland, will keep right on preparing men for jobs under the American flag on merchant ships."

"This service is training at present 4,000 apprentices a month, and we are planning to increase its output."

"The shipping board will continue until further notice to accept men between eighteen and thirty-five inclusive, for training."

"We want to build up an all-American personnel for the great merchant marine."

Recruits for the peace fleet will be accepted at any one of 6,800 drug store enrolling stations maintained by the shipping board.

KILLED 20; WINS CLEMENCY

Tripoli War Record Frees Soldier Convicted by Court-Martial.

Evidence that single-handed he had killed 20 Arabs in a bayonet fight during the Tripolitan wars, won his release from a court-martial sentence for Private John Deroberts, when his record, including a testimonial and medal from the king of Italy, were brought to the attention of Major General Scott, camp commander at Camp Dix. N. J. Deroberts was arrested as the result of a clash with his sergeant.
The court-martial found him guilty of a minor charge and imposed a deduc-tion of pay for three months. The royal certificate which Deroberts produced, described his bayonet fight with a score of the enemy as one of the most brilliant personal achievements of the Tripoli campaign.

LAYS VICTORY TO OIL

The Producing and Refining of Oil Largely Contributory to Winning the War

One great factor in winning the war was American resources, money, guns, munitions, provisions of all kind, munitions and oil.

A knowledge of the enormous, inexhaustible resources of this vast, new country, together with its marvelous producing capacity gradually penetrated the intelligence of the German people. It took the heart out of the fight, sapped their morale, destroyed their hope of victory.

This fact just as surely as the fighting qualities of the American soldier, shortened the war by many months at least, perhaps years.

Victory for the Allies was made possible at this early date largely on account of the immense producing capacity, and financial responsibility of manufacturers and producers in the United States.

The Making of Millionaires.

The millionaires who have arisen in this country from humble origin—of obscure parentage—have materially helped to seal the doom of inherited autocracy.

John D. Rockefeller stands out prominently in the field of oil production. But it is doubtful if he could grasp even in imagination the full extent to which the production of oil was to figure, not alone in the development of American industry, but in determining world affairs.

Opportunities in Kentucky.

He pointed the way—he was the pioneer—the first adventurer, and his gains enormous, can scarcely be calculated.

It is not widely known, but here in Kentucky there has been tremendous production of oil, a fact that has been taken advantage of by only a limited number of people.

Unlike the developments of the coal and timber resources of the state, the oil industry has been financed in large measure by Kentucky capital. Local investors have made the Kentucky oil fields possible and have shared correspondingly in the enormous profits that have been made and are being made daily in this field which is now recognized as a leading undeveloped oil territory in the United States.

More than 550 drilling outfits are today operating in 50 counties in Kentucky. The first field of importance was on Cow Creek, near Irvine, in Estill county; here it was that the real pioneers in the industry made the first rich discovery. Next came the development of the Zuchuriah pool near Torrent, in which is situated the famous Ashley farm for which it is said "Pat" White received an offer of five million dollars. The third field in point of importance and far richer is "Big Shinking" in Lee county. Here real gushers have been found, some producing as high as 1,000 barrels daily.

A Successful Company.

Among the pioneer companies in the Kentucky oil field is one that is perhaps more largely responsible for the development than any other is the McCombs Producing & Refining Company, of which Abram Benick of Winchester, Ky., is president. Mr. Benick has been long identified with the live stock and agricultural industry in the state, having been one time president of the American Short Horn Breeders' Association, also president of the Pedigreed Live Stock Association of America, co-operating with the executive management of the company under the direction of Mr. Benick. Mr. J. C. McCombs, one of the recognized successful oil men of the county, has had charge of the field operations. The McCombs Oil Company is the owner of properties on which there are more than 80 wells in the Irvine, Zuchuriah and Big Shinking fields.

The McCombs Company has been unusually lucky in striking oil in this territory, particularly of late. A five-hundred barrel gusher being one of their latest achievements. This, however, is but one of 80 producing wells. The McCombs people, however, go at this matter in a very practical kind of a way.

They have already established or rather bought a refinery plant, a fleet of tank cars, and are evidently earnest in their attempt to establish a stable, permanent, tremendously profitable business.

To this end they have carefully selected some definite proven territory, and now control over 17,000 acres.

Spouting Automobiles.

It has been humorously remarked that nothing is as non-comittal as an oil well that isn't finished. A spouter is garrulous beside it. But when it is finished, it either goes on being quieter than ever, or it begins spouting automobiles, trips to Europe and large, nobby mansions in New York.

Statistics show that 50 wells producing 20 barrels per day will yield $200,000 per year. With over 80 producing wells and a refinery in operation, there is hardly left an element of sporting chance. Palm Beach and Paris get closer every day.

EXTENSION WORKERS HELP COMBAT INFLUENZA

Regulars and Volunteers in an Extension Kitchen Preparing Food for the Sick.

Local Authorities Aided By Home Demonstration Agents.

When the influenza epidemic made it impossible to hold meetings of any kind, the home demonstration agents all over the country, in response to the call for trained, intelligent help, went to the rescue and have been doing yeoman service throughout the fight to gain the upper hand of the "flu."

Particularly valuable has been these women's knowledge of foods and diets. Vast quantities of broth, egg lemonades, custards and other good things have been made ready for the sick by the energetic agents and workers. Of much importance in aiding to combat any disease are nourishing and proper foods.

Six hundred and sixteen pounds of beef and chicken were, in a short time in the kitchen of the States Relations Service of the Department of Agriculture in Washington, turned into broth. Dozens of eggs and gallons of milk went from the same kitchen to the hospital in nourishing guises. Volunteers aided those on the staff.

The entire charge of the food sent those ill from the influenza, from one of the emergency centers in Washington, as well as the feeding of the doctors and nurses there, was under the direction of the States Relations Service kitchen.

Another particularly valuable kitchen was one established in Tampa, Florida, for the relieving of influenza patients there. In Texas conditions became so serious at the extension headquarters that all the home demonstration agents were called in to assist in fighting the epidemic.

Splendid Work in North Carolina.

Agents in several counties, it is reported from Raleigh, opened and operated diet kitchens co-operating with the Red Cross in furnishing proper nourishment to the sick, while agents connected with the Department of Agriculture in other counties have supplied hot broth either directly to the families of the afflicted or by Boy Scouts under Y. M. C. A. direction.

A home demonstration agent for Cabarrus county, N. C. writes: "I came to Kannapolis this morning to turn our cannery building into a soup kitchen. It is ideal for the purpose. There were over 800 people absent from the mill today, which will show you how our efforts are needed. The Y. M. C. A. director is having our soup distributed by the Boy Scouts, and we are sending it out in our glass jars, fitted into pasteboard boxes in which they were bought. This keeps the soup hot."

The central district agent in North Carolina is nursing in the emergency ward at the State college of agriculture and engineering; the eastern district agent has been emergency nurse for members of the extension service sick in Wilson; a specialist is in charge of the diet at the same institution and is in close touch with the local Red Cross chapter, which supplies many forms of nourishment.

Emergency diet kitchens have been established in the domestic science department of the high school at Asheville, and in the court house at Whiteville, Washington, N. C. also has a kitchen operated by a home demonstration county agent who reports: "We keep open until far into the night and we have been able to fill a real need."

Cook Dried Fruit Proper Way.

Unless dried food is prepared in a palatable fashion, families will tire of it and it will be wasted. This will react unfavorably on the gardens for next year and on the drying campaign.

The main difference between dried and fresh foods lies in the proportion of water they contain. Therefore the first step in preparation is to put back water about equal in amount to that lost during drying.

One reason why dried foods have been unpopular is that they so often have been undersoaked and overcooked. When the time of soaking is long, and that of cooking short, the flavor will be more like that of fresh food.

Shape and texture must be considered, the more solid the article the longer the time required for drying, and hence the longer the period of soaking required. After washing, such foods should be put into three or four times their bulk of water and left covered in a cool place from three to forty-eight hours, according to their substance. Should any indication of fermentation appear, they must be scalded at once. Otherwise leave them until they regain their original size or lose most of the wrinkles in the surface; then the time of cooking will be but little longer than that needed by the same fruit or vegetable fresh from the garden.

The water in which fruits have soaked should be used to cook the food. In case of high flavored fruits, like the apricot more water may be used for cooking and that in which it soaked will serve to give flavor to tasteless apples or a gelatine dessert.

Buying New Equipment.

Is it easy to keep clean and will it lessen labor and save your time? These are the two pertinent points when buying new equipment.

Because an article is widely advertised does not guarantee that it will

The Department of Agriculture advocates that the necessity to conserve fuel indicates the wisdom of buying one of the cooking devices for saving fuel if such is not already included in the equipment. These include the fireless cooker the pressure cooker, compartments steamers and the triple sauce-pans, to fit over one gas plate or oil burner.

Have Potted Meat Ready.

The end of a boiled ham or corned beef sorted, bone and gristle removed, fat and meat chopped fine, may yield more than could be used advantageously at a single meal. Heat it, with little water, in its own fat and pack solidly in jelly tumblers or small jars. There should be a quarter inch of fat on top to harden and form a seal from the air. With a tin cover on top, meat thus prepared will keep several weeks.

Seasoning may be added as for any potted meat. Meat thus prepared, both from two to four times its bulk of fat and lean, is ready to be used with potatoes or other vegetable for hashes or for sandwiches, etc.

BIG PLANE TAKES UP FORTY PASSENGERS.

London, November 17.—The Hand-lay-Page airplane set upon record in its flight on Friday when it took up no fewer than forty passengers for a trip over London. The previous record was twenty.

This giant machine is the first of a series that had been specially constructed to bomb Berlin, but it was not completed until three days after the signing of the armistice. It is easily the biggest airplane in the world; it weighs six tons, while the total weight when fully loaded is fifteen tons.—New York World.

Two Points To Remember About The New Edison

There are many sound reproducing devices on the market. There is but one which associated with the name of a great inventor.

There are many sound reproducing devices about the merit of which strong assertions are made. There is but one which has ever offered to prove the truth of its claims.

The only instrument which bears the stamp of a great inventor's name—the only instrument which has been subjected to the searching test of actual comparison with the artist's living voice is

THE NEW EDISON

"THE PHONOGRAPH WITH A SOUL"

The makers of the New Edison assert that it Re-creates the artist's voice or instrument with such complete fidelity that no human ear can distinguish the artist from the Re-creation. Then they proceed to prove it by subjecting the instrument to the acid test of direct comparison with the living artist.

More than 1500 of these tone tests have been conducted. Invariably the result proved the truth of this claim. Why has no other device been subjected to this test?

To Do The Required Work

In The Given Time.

Give more time to main subjects, such as arithmetic and english. Make longer assignments.

Teachers make better preparation that longer assignments may be handled in the same time. Teachers should have well matured written plans.

Assign additional work to be prepared at home, this work not to be recited in class.

Use the lecture plan of recitation occasionally.

Give less time to the brighter pupils and more to the less brilliant.

Plan your assignments several days or weeks ahead, that you can have the important points or principles well in mind, that you can stress these and touch lightly on the less important. In other words the less time the teacher has the nearer the teacher should confine the lesson to the basis principles.

Remember a few principles well taught are better than many poorly taught.

Teach the pupils big things in a big way to give big views.

To make high school credits and arrive at the number of required units to enter college, the teacher will have to plan methods of recitations. There are enough hours in the school day to spare to give the high school pupil the required number of hours. The teacher may have a written lesson from one class while hearing another orally. A class may recite after the regular school hour for one period, or may meet the teacher for an hour or so on a holiday or Saturday and no doubt there are other ways that will suggest themselves to the thoughtful teacher from time to time. The way credits stand in most high schools is about as follows, for instance in the subject of History there is required a forty minute or two-third hour period for one hundred and eighty days to make a unit of credit.

180x2-3 equal 120 the number of hours to make a unit of credits. High schools have been in session about thirty days, then 30x2-3 equal 20 number of hours work previously done in History. 120-20 equal 100 number of hours work to be done in History. Schools have been closed thirty days, thus leaving 120 days to be taught. 120x2-3 equal 80 number of hours that can be done in the usual recitation period in time remaining. 100-80 equal 20 number of hours necessary to be made outside the usual recitation period to make the full unit of credit in History. This applies similarly to other subjects of the course.

ON THE RUN—"SOMEWHERE IN FRANCE."

The following letter clipped from an exchange in supposed to be a letter from the Kaiser's son:

"July 20, Times.—Dear Papa: I am writing on the run, as the brave and glorious soldiers under my command have not seen the Rhine for so long they have started back that way, and of course I am going with them. Oh, papa, there has been some offed things happened here in France. First I started in my big offensive, which was to crush the fool Americans' but day know so little about military tactics that they will not be crushed just like I want 'em. I sent my men in the fight in big waves, and when they got to de Americans dey all said, 'Boo' as loud as they could holler. Vell, according to vat you haf always told me de Americans should have turned and run like blazes. But vat do you think? Dem fool Americans don't know anything about war, and instead of running de odder way, dey came right toward us. Some of dem was singing something about 'Ve von't come back 'till its over, over dere,' or some odder foolish song, and some of them ver laffing like fools. Day are so ignorant. But dey are offel wreckless mit dere guns, and ven dey come toward us it was den dat my men took a notion day wanted to go back to de dear old Rhine. Ve don't like de old dirty Marne river, anyhow. And oh, papa, dem Americans use such offel language. Dey know nothing of kultur, and say such offel dings right before us. And dey talk blasphemy, too. Vat you think dey said right in front of mine face? One big husky from de State dey call Kentucky he said; oh, papa, I hate to tell vat an offel thing he said—but I can't help it, he said, "To hell mit der kaiser!" Did you ever hear anything so awful? I didn't think anybody would say such an offel thing. It made me so mad I wouldn't stand and hear such offel ting, so I turned around and ran mit de odder boys. Vas I right? Vat? An, oh, papa, you know dem brestplates vat you sent us—can you send some to put on our backs? You know we are going de odder vay now and brestplates are no good, for de cowardly Americans are shooting us right in der back. Some of our boys took off der brestplates put 'em on behind, but de fool Americans are playing "De Star Spangled Banner" mit machine guns on dem plates. Can't you help us? You remember in your speech you said nothing could stand before the brave German soldiers? Oh, papa, I don't believe dese ignorant Americans ever read your speech, for dey run after us just like ve vas rabbits. Vot you tink of dot? Can't you send dem some of your speeches right away? Dey don't know how terrible we are. Can't you move my army back to Belgium vere ve von all our glory? My men can vip all de vimmin and children vot dem Belgians can bring up. But dese Americans are so rough and ignorant. Ve can't make dem understand dot ve are de greatest soldiers on earth, and ven ve try to sing "Deutschland Uber Alles" dey laugh like a lot of monkeys. But ve are getting de best of der Americans. Ve can outrun dem. Papa if ve are not de best fighters on earth ve are sure de best runners. Nobody can keep up mit us ven ve ting of der dear old Rhine and my army never did tink so much of dot old river. Let me know right away vot to do by return postoffice."

To Consolidate Telegraph Offices.

A Letter From Lieut. Moorman.

show this and you will find the same spirit everywhere. The only thing it sometimes looks as if the only way to hold them back will be to chain them. The organizations, Red Cross, Y. M. C. A. etc. are more than could ever have been dreamed they could be. They are everywhere all the time. They are the soul of the army, and we can all salute them with the same pride that we salute the colors.

The people at home are very proud of the boys over here and should be, but remember this, the boys over here are just as proud of the folks at home. If one outweighs the other it is our pride in the good, old whole-hearted way in which the whole people as a unit have backed up the boys over here. It is the source of our unbounded admiration.

Have seen Henry a number of times and you may know it was a happy meeting. He is now in the Judge Advocate Dept. and seems to like the work very well. Chas Moorman of Louisville, whom you may know is also over here somewhere, although I have never run across him.

I know of nothing that would be of particular interest to you, nor have I any criticism to offer. Things seem to me to be in splendid running order on all sides. The only one thing I could suggest is the system of promotion with Provisional Lieutenants does not meet with the approval of all on this side. Many inexperienced boys in the early twenties run up to Captain while mature men, splendid men and thoroughly competent are still Second Lieutenants after finishing all the schools of France. Men are becoming officers by the thousand and these men are still of the same grade as those made over night. I do not speak of this as an occasional happening, but it is very general and has met the notice of all. There are hundreds of men under twenty-five who are Captains and who have never seen active service, and there are thousand of mature men of near thirty, who are still Second Lieutenants. Of course this is a general topic of conversation with Reserve men at all times I don't believe any man over here wants promotion without he unquestionably merits it, but naturally all men want an even break in any game.

I have written more at length than I intended but I have endeavored to give you just what information I felt you would like to have, and to give a little insight into the life "over here."

With best wishes to you and any of my Kentucky friends in Washington. I beg to remain, Very truly yours, Roy E. Moorman.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Moorman, Hardinsburg, Ky. My Dear Mr. and Mrs. Moorman: You will no doubt be surprised to receive a letter from me but it has occurred to me that you might be pleased to hear from one who was both a comrade and a friend of your son, Roy's. I knew him well, in fact we had been together ever since we went to the Presidio Training Camp, and we were in the same battery while under going our first training. We came to France on the same order, on the same boat, were together three months at Saumur, and also at the tractor school and then were assigned to the same station here.

I have seldom met anyone who combined so many desirable qualities as he. He was the soul of honor! With his fine manly bearing he combined a cheerful even disposition which made his society a constant pleasure and many are the hours we have spent together.

I can only add that he was at all times a perfect gentleman and a splendid officer.

While your hearts are bleeding and torn over your cruel loss, yet you will be sustained in the thought that he was a son worthy of any parents; that he played his part manfully and that he gave his life fully and freely for his country and humanity.

And after all is said what more can any man do?

I only wish you might hear the universal expressions of grief and regret that I have heard over his demise.

Everyone has a good word for Roy Moorman and they always close by saying, "He sure was a prince," and he was in every respect.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Moorman. Dear Friends: I take the liberty to write to you and tell you that I regret the death of your son, Roy, just as much as if it was in my own family. Roy was a very dear friend to me, we worked together for over a month and became closely attached to each other. Roy was a man that anyone could not help but liking. He was clean, truthful and a man of clean habits, which go to show that his parents' teachings were not in vain. Roy was a genuine soldier through and through, always keeping a clean appearance and doing his work as a real soldier should without a word of displeasure. He was liked by all his fellow officers and also by his men. He was a man that anyone would be pleased to call friend.

Roy's brother was here today and we had a very friendly visit together. Hoping this letter will find you in the best of health. I remain, Sincerely yours, Lieut. George E. Kein.

Absolute Fidelity

is an important qualification in the executor of a will.

Heirs may become dissatisfied with its terms and seek to modify them. They may bring pressure to bear upon the executor or trustee. If he is susceptible to influence, or prone to take the road of least resistance, the will may be compromised.

One of the important advantages of Trust Company service is its freedom from bias and from personal influence. When this company acts as executor or trustee, there is absolutely no deviation from the testator's wishes, expressed or implied.

LET'S RAISE A STONE.

A number of Ohio county boys have given their lives for their country, on the battle-fields of France. Let us raise a fitting monument to their memory. Mr. Sam Barnett was, we believe, the first to suggest this manner of honoring our soldier dead. Let us raise an obelisk a single stone, in the court house yard, and inscribe on it the names of those who gave their lives that free government might not perish from earth; that the generation that comes after us may be inspired with the example of a grateful people to those who will give their lives for their country.—Hartford Republican.

Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Taberling received a message from Louisville last Thursday morning that her mother, Mrs. Van Pate had died suddenly. The message was too late for any one of the family to leave earlier than on the 5 P. M. train. Mr. Taberling and daughter, Miss Maggie Taberling went and remained until after the funeral on Friday afternoon.

Mrs. Jesse Isom and Miss Mary Kinder spent Tuesday in Cannellton.

The following is an extract from a letter of one of the home boys in Camp McClellan, Ala., written Nov. 21. "We have just returned from a hyke over the mountains. I am very tired but not too much so to write to any of my Cloverport friends.

"We have now been over an area of 15 miles surrounding the camp and none of the views have attracted me specially except when on a hyke we passed through a beautiful valley about 300 yards wide, as level as the floor, carpeted with grass, verdant as early summer; on both sides a forest of tall pines added beauty to the scene. Through the center a road way about wide enough for the usual number of men to walk abreast. The constant tramp, tramp, tramp of the boys, and the surroundings stamped a picture upon my memory which I shall never forget.

On our way to camp we passed a cotton field of 3 acres where an old colored man was picking cotton. There were 1,300 of us we got into man's work was completed he said the field and in 30 minutes the old that was the third picking he had had this season and would have one more.

We are having some fun drilling horses that had been sent in to go over sea but thanks to our Heavenly Father the war is over. Yes we have had a few chilly mornings, but go without our coats yet. While we have been separated from home and friends we have experienced none of the terrors and awful sights of those who have crossed over. I have always heard the southern States talked and sung about the sunny south, loveliest of all lands, but to give me my old Kentucky home where I hope soon to be. Hillary V. Beavin, B. C. 25th F. PROVED SPIRIT OF DEMOCRACY

Voluntary Basis of Food Saving Showed Heart of America Beat True for Freedom.

To the voluntary service and sacrifice of the American people must be attributed the continued health, strength and morale of the Allied armies and the civil populace.

Upon this spirit of service and sacrifice will depend Europe's fate in the months to come. In the past year we have carried out an export program, the magnitude of which is almost beyond comprehension. But with the new demands that have come, with the liberation of millions freed from German oppression, our exports must be almost doubled. Instead of 11,820,000 tons, we must ship twenty million tons of food to Europe in the coming year—as much as can be pushed through our ports.

If the Allies had not been fed by America, it would have been impossible for them to maintain their defense against Germany.

Meeting this world need on a purely voluntary basis, the American people have conclusively proved that democracy is a success and that in time of need it will rise to its own defense.

If there were no other accomplishment to its credit the very fact that it has shown the strength of democracy has in itself more than justified the existence of the Food Administration in the eyes of the world.

Less than four months after the United States declared war the United States Food Administrator expressed his determination to meet America's food problem on a basis of voluntary action and reiterated his confidence that awakened democracy would prove irresistible.

"Many thinking Americans," said Mr. Hoover, "and the whole world have been watching anxiously the first four months in the fear that democratic America could not organize to meet autocratic Germany. Germany has been confident that it could not be done. Contrary proof is immediately at our door, and our people have already demonstrated their ability to mobilize, organize, endure and prepare voluntarily and efficiently in many directions and upon the mere word of inspiration aside from the remarkable assemblage of our Army and finances."

The history of the Food Administration has clearly shown that the trust of those who put their faith in democracy has not been misplaced.

SAVE 16,000,000 BUSHELS OF WHEAT THAT FORMERLY WAS LOST IN THRESHING

Farmers, Urged by Food Administration, Provide Seven Extra Loaves of Bread for Every American.

By adopting cleaner threshing methods and by literally combing harvest fields to gather grain formerly wasted, threshermen and farmers of the United States this year saved fully 16,000,000 bushels of wheat, estimated as equivalent to about seven one-pound loaves of bread for every person in the country. This result, accompanied by corresponding savings of barley, oats, rye and other grains, is shown by reports from 33 grain states to the U. S. Food Administration. Other states, although not prepared to furnish definite figures of conservation in the grain fields, report greatly reduced harvest losses.

This rural food saving achievement, accomplished in scarcely six months' time, was in direct response to requests by the Food Administration, which asked farmers and threshermen to reduce harvest losses from about 34 per cent.—the estimated average in normal times—to the lowest possible minimum. Country grain threshing committees carried into every grain growing community the official recommendations for accomplishing the results desired.

In numerous instances drivers of racks with leaky bottoms were sent from the fields to repair their equipment and frequently had order threshing machines were stopped until the cause of waste was removed. But in proportion to the number of persons engaged in gathering the nation's grain crop, cases of compulsion were comparatively rare. The Food Administration freely attributes the success of the grain threshing campaign to patriotic service by farmers, threshermen and their crews. Incidentally grain growers of the United States are many millions of dollars "in pocket" as a result of the grain saved.

NO ONE SUFFERED HERE.

The marvel of our voluntary food-saving, now that we are "getting results," is that no one ever actually suffered any hardship from it; that we all are better in health and spirit and better satisfied with ourselves because of our friendly self-denial.

Food control in America held the price of breadstuffs steady, prevented vicious speculation and extortion and preserved tranquillity at home.

In no other nation is there so willing a sense of voluntary self-sacrifice as in America—that was shown in the abstention from wheat.

Find more wheat, it came; more pork, it came; save sugar, it was done. So Americans answered the challenge of German starvation.

Good will rules the new world as fear governed the old world. Through sharing food America helps make the whole world kin.

Food control made sufficiency from shortage, kept the rein on food prices, gave the nation's full strength exercise.

Starvation by Germany challenged all the world; food conservation in America answered the challenge.

Food conservation in America has been the triumph of individual devotion to the national cause.

USED MELTING POTS TO BOIL HUN BONES

Atlanta Soldier Tells of Find in One of Last Charges of War.

"The most unique find we made, after our charge into the German lines, just before the armistice was signed, was a 'melting pot' used for boiling down the German corpses, and also a bone-crushing machine. Consequently, there were not many bones around, but a few skulls were here and there."

That is a remarkable statement made by Arthur MacKnight of the Forty-first battalion, Canadian Highlanders, in a letter to his father at Atlanta. Young MacKnight is twenty-three years of age. He was reared and educated in Atlanta and has been in France for several months.

Describing his first real "over the top" charge the young soldier writes: "The first thing I knew I was facing Hun machine gunfire, but just about from then on a dense fog came over the whole front, and then we could get right up on them before they would get a 'head' on us. Every Hun we came across had his hands up crying 'kainered!' They were so thick in numbers that we could not shoot on account of our men being on the other side of them."

"As we came onto our first objective we could see the cavalry going ahead, and also our tanks. One time we had a laugh when one of our tanks got after a German general and chased him quite a ways, until finally he stopped and the tank crew took him a prisoner."

HIS DEED WILL GO DOWN IN HISTORY

The Abbot Thuitiez of Cambrai is shown here talking with a Canadian officer in the streets of that city. The fearless act of this brave man will most surely be remembered in years to come. Although he was threatened with death by the now defeated Germans, he stayed with a sick woman, thereby risking his own life in the procedure.

BIG ACHIEVEMENTS MARK M'ADOO'S LIFE

Successful as Lawyer, Promoter and Head of Two Great Government Bureaus.

(From The New York Sun.)

William Gibbs McAdoo has been doing the unexpected all through his career. He quit college in his junior year to hustle for his living when the family funds ran low. He tried to give Knoxville, Tenn., its first street railway line back in 1892 and left that town for good when the city administrator blocked his efforts. He surprised New York and its New Jersey suburbs by giving reality to a rapid transit vision of fifty years with his North River tubes. He failed in efforts to complete with the Interborough Rapid Transit Company for the extension of the old subway, and then dropped out of the local field to become the director of Woodrow Wilson's campaign for the Presidency and eventually Secretary of the Treasury and Director-General of Railroads.

"What is McAdoo going to do now?" was the question that people wanted answered last night after they had recovered from the shock of hearing that the most powerful figure of the Government next to the President had abdicated. Of course they wanted to know first why he did it. The answer to that is in the despatches from Washington.

What the Secretary will do when he quits his post remains for time to develop. He said last night that he intends to look for a job. He will have scant trouble in finding one. There are many commercial houses that would be glad to have him apply himself in their interest. His experiences comprehend those of a successful lawyer, a successful promoter of a big railroad enterprise and a Government official who has had supervision of two great Departments, banking and railroads.

Became a Lawyer at 21.

William Gibbs McAdoo is 55 years old. He was born near Marietta, Ga. His father, also named William Gibbs McAdoo, served in the Mexican and Civil wars, was a judge, and late in life became professor of English literature and history in the University of Tennessee. His mother, "one of the Floyds of Virginia," wrote several novels.

When the younger McAdoo left the University of Tennessee he was made deputy clerk of the Federal Court of Chattanooga. He studied law and was admitted to the bar in his twenty-first year.

While practicing law in Chattanooga, Mr. McAdoo was counsel for two local railroad companies, acquired knowledge that was to lead him to be an important factor in the transit systems of New York city and ultimately to the war time control of all the railroads of the country.

Mr. McAdoo undertook in 1892 to give Knoxville, Tenn., its first street railway line. He was opposed by a rival company that had the favor of the city administration. The officials sent the firemen to disperse his workmen with hose lines. There was a riot. A workman was killed and many persons were hurt. McAdoo closed his business affairs there and came to New York. He did not again see Knoxville until 1912, when he spoke there for the candidacy of Woodrow Wilson for President. When he did go back, the city gave itself for a day and a night to demonstrations in his honor.

It was when he was 29 years old that Mr. McAdoo came to New York and started to practice law in an office in the back of a Wall street building. He had a wife and several children as responsibilities and no assets of much value except a winning manner in presenting matters in which he felt an interest. In 1898 he formed a law partnership with Chief Magistrate William McAdoo, who had been Representative in Congress, Assistant Secretary of the Navy and Police Commissioner. There was no blood relationship between them.

Starts Hudson River Tunnel.

It was in the spring of 1903 that New York began to hear of a plan that appeared to have substance to give the city and its Jersey suburbs railroad connection by tunnel under the North River. In March of that year the Hudson and Manhattan Railroad Company was incorporated at Albany with capital stock of $3,000,000 and William G. McAdoo as president.

Mr. McAdoo's original project was for a tunnel of two miles and an expenditure of $4,000,000. Ultimately he built eighteen miles of tunnel under land and water and spent $70,000,000. He met with many obstacles but he had men like Fredrick B. Jennings, E. H. Gary, E. C. Converse and Walter G. Oakman with him and in 1908 success and public recognition were accorded to him in emphatic fashion with the opening of traffic in the tubes between the Hudson Terminal Building and Jersey City.

Mr. McAdoo's sons chose Princeton as their university. While visiting them the father met Woodrow Wilson, then president of the university. A friendship began which was strengthened by meetings that took place when Wilson became Governor of New Jersey and Mr. McAdoo was a business man with important interests in that State. He was one of the original boosters of Mr. Wilson for the Democratic nomination for President and was delegate to the Baltimore convention of 1912.

During the campaign Mr. McAdoo, though vice-chairman of the Democratic national committee, was in active charge of affairs because of the illness of William F. McCombs, chairman.

Mr. McAdoo assumed control of the Treasury Department on March 4, 1913. He devoted himself to the reorganization of the nation's banking system with the Federal Reserve Bank as the foundation for the new structure. The system had been hardly more than established with the Federal Reserve Board at Washington as the central supervising agency when the outbreak of the European war confronted the nation with serious financial problems.

An International Service Built on Tiny Profits Per Pound

Some industries have been able to get in step with war demands more quickly than others.

In many cases mighty plants have sprung up—but at a prodigious cost.

The packing industry was able to adapt itself to unheard of demands more quickly, perhaps, than any other industry. And this was because the vast equipment of packing plants, refrigerator cars, branch houses, etc., had been gradually developed to its present state of efficiency, so that in the crucial hour it became a mighty international system for war service.

And how had this development taken place?

Not by making vast inroads into the capital wealth of the country, but largely by using, from year to year, a portion of the profits, to provide for expansion.

Swift & Company's profits have always been so tiny, compared with sales, that they have had practically no effect on the price of meat (amounting to only a fraction of a cent per pound).

And yet the owners of the business have been content with reasonable returns on their capital, and have been able, year after year, to put part of the profits back into the business to provide for its expansion.

These fractions of tiny profits have been repaid to the public many fold in the form of better service, and better and cheaper meat, and made it possible for Swift & Company to meet, undaunted, the sudden cry for meat for overseas.

Could any other method of financing a vital industry involve less hardship to the people of the country? Could there be a better instance of true "profit-sharing" than this return in added usefulness and in national preparedness?

The money raised from the sale of this stock will continue to be used, as it has been used in the past, in the development and expansion of the company's properties. Over $825,000.00 of capital raised from the sale of stock has been invested in properties and equipment in the twelve months of the company's existence. Its outstanding position today as the leader among the independent oil companies operating in Kentucky may be ascribed to following this policy of expansion. Results accomplished to date are but a forerunner of those which may be expected to ensue from the further development of the company's concededly valuable holdings, and expansion in the field of its operations through increasing the size of its refining plant, now operating, and the purchase of additional producing properties. In view of progress to date "McCombs" stock at $2.00 per share is an extremely attractive investment opportunity with the probabilities of unlimited enhancement in value.
